

THE INSTALLATION OF

SURESH V. GARIMELLA

23RD PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA

March 25, 2025

What is it to see?
A mechanism wired in the brain
that leads to wonder. What is it to wonder but to say what we've seen and, having said it,
need to see farther.

Alison Deming
from Mt. Lemmon, Steward Observatory, 1990

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA

Established in 1885, the University of Arizona is the state's flagship, land grant institution. The U of A ranks among America's top institutions, focusing on student access and success while driving a $1 billion research enterprise and engaging communities throughout the state and worldwide. As a leading Research 1 institution and member of the Association of American Universities, the U of A advances the frontiers of interdisciplinary scholarship and entrepreneurial partnerships. With two accredited medical schools, designation as a Hispanic-Serving Institution by the U.S. Dept. of Education, recognition as a premier university for service members, and distinctive degree programs ranging from management information systems to planetary sciences, dance, photography, and public and applied humanities, the U of A offers the world to its students while engaging and uplifting Arizona.

CEREMONIAL SYMBOLS

The President's Medallion

The University of Arizona President's Medallion is worn as part of the President's regalia on all formal ceremonial occasions. Crafted from gold, it depicts the official University of Arizona Seal, a trademark of the Office of the President since 1915. The back of the medallion reads: "The President's Medallion: Presented to the Office of the President by the University of Arizona Foundation." The medallion has been a long-standing tradition passed along to each president at the time of their installation.

The Ceremonial Mace

The University of Arizona Mace, carried by the Chair of the Faculty, Dr. Leila Hudson, reflects the unique character, mission and values of the university while signifying its dignity and authority. This three-part staff features a crown of sterling silver surrounding the seal of the university accented with 22K gold. Underlying the crown are 24 acrylic strips in the school colors of red and blue, adding a jewel-like sparkle. The main shaft is made of local mesquite with a sterling silver band inscribed with 'The University of Arizona', also accented with 22K gold. The tailpiece repeats the motif of the crown and surrounds a medallion with the mark of the Arizona Wildcat. This symbolic piece was crafted for the university by College of Fine Arts Professor Emeritus Michael Croft.

Academic Regalia

The rich tapestry of gowns, caps and hoods on display at a presidential installation comes from a tradition of academic dress stemming from the 16th century. U.S. doctoral robes, generally black with black velvet sleeve chevrons, may also reflect the colors of the degree-granting institution. With faculty and delegates in the procession representing universities from around the world, gowns may be any number of colors and worn open or closed. Academic hoods have a complex code, where the silky lining reflects the degree-granting institution's colors and pattern, and the edging color represents the discipline – from engineering orange and science gold to the salmon pink of public health. The University of Arizona official ceremonial gown worn by the president is red with navy yoke and facing embroidered with the university's seal, and carries four chevrons on each sleeve.

Suresh V. Garimella

President, University of Arizona
University Distinguished Professor

Suresh Garimella serves as the 23rd president of the University of Arizona and University Distinguished Professor in the Department of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering, positions he assumed on October 1, 2024. He was unanimously appointed by the Arizona Board of Regents following a robust national search. On selecting Garimella to lead the university, Board Chair Cecilia Mata praised his collaborative leadership, experience, and vision, calling him a “tireless champion for students” who is well suited to lead the university into a bright future.

Previously, he was president of the University of Vermont (UVM) from 2019 to 2024. Under his leadership, the university underscored its reputation as a premier flagship research university dedicated to providing a world-class student experience and committed to fulfilling its land-grant mission, a focus he brings to the U of A as well.

Throughout his career, Garimella has emphasized the importance of access and affordability for students, and he has worked to promote excellence in the student learning experience. A professor of mechanical engineering, he is both a highly cited scholar and researcher and a passionate educator, mentoring more than 65 undergraduate students who worked in his lab, as well as over 90 graduate students and 50 post-doctoral scholars, 30 of whom hold prestigious faculty positions around the world.

During his tenure as UVM’s president, he led an annual undergraduate seminar class devoted to engaging students in civil discourse on multifaceted contemporary issues.

As a researcher, Garimella has made seminal contributions to the field of electronics thermal management and energy efficiency at micro and nano scales, and in sustainable energy systems technology and policy. He is co-author of over 625 refereed publications and 16 issued patents, and he has been recognized as an elected Member of the National Academy of Engineering and Fellow of the National Academy of Inventors, the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Garimella also has made important contributions in national and international policy matters. He served as a member of the National Science Board, which oversees the National Science Foundation and acts as an independent body of advisers to both the President and Congress on policy matters related to science and engineering. He also chairs the research advisory board of Sandia National Laboratories, is a member of the board of directors at Modine and the executive committee for the Council on Competitiveness, and previously served as a Jefferson Science Fellow at the U.S. Department of State and as Senior Fellow for Energy and Climate Partnership of the Americas.

Prior to his time leading the University of Vermont, President Garimella served at Purdue University as the Goodson Distinguished Professor of Mechanical Engineering and Executive Vice President for Research and Partnerships. Under his leadership of Purdue’s $660 million research enterprise, the university achieved five consecutive record years in sponsored funding and seeded approximately 50 startups annually. He developed strategic and comprehensive partnerships with major corporations, NGOs, and national governments in Colombia, India, and the Middle East, conceived and implemented ambitious campus-wide initiatives in life sciences and integrative data science, and oversaw Purdue’s Discovery Park, a unique set of facilities and institutes where the convergence of disciplines helped solve global challenges related to health and life sciences, sustainability, food, energy, and defense and security.

His educational background includes a PhD from the University of California, Berkeley, an MS from The Ohio State University, and a bachelor’s degree from the Indian Institute of Technology, Madras.
